INFORMATION on NABTE:

The National Association for Business Teacher Education (NABTE) is the institutional division of NBEA. Its primary purpose is to promote business teacher education by providing national leadership and services to its member institutions and business teacher educators. Membership is open only to such colleges and universities that offer business teacher education curriculums approved by their respective State Departments of Education for the certification of business teachers. NABTE Institutional Representatives must be current professional members of NBEA.

Benefits:

- ❖ Publications including NABTE Review, NABTE website, NABTE newsletter (email), Business Teacher Education Curriculum Guide & Program Standards
- ❖ Teacher education support network
- ❖ Networking with other business teacher education professionals
- ❖ Research opportunities
- ❖ NABTE Research Conference
- ❖ Marketing and recruiting strategies
- ❖ Biennial Teacher Education Survey
- ❖ Research publication vehicle
- ❖ Professional development
- ❖ National program visibility
- ❖ Awards: Student Award of Merit and Research Award

The objectives of NABTE are:

- To improve undergraduate and graduate programs preparing business teachers.
- To help develop high standards for business teacher certification.
- To stimulate research in business education and assist in disseminating and implementing research results.
- To promote a better understanding of the significance of business and economic programs in schools.
- To assist in the recruitment of potential business teachers and the placement of qualified business teachers.
- To cooperate and work actively with other associations to improve educational opportunities for all.

NABTE dues are $150 annually. Member institutions participate in the annual NBEA Award of Merit program that honors an outstanding graduating senior at its school with a certificate, recognition in the Business Education Forum, and a one-year professional membership. The NABTE institution receives the following NBEA publications each year: four issues of Business Education Forum, four issues of Keying In, the NBEA Yearbook, three copies of the NABTE Review, and other timely publications.
